SCHOOL STAFF ENTERTAINED BY KIWANIS

Gift is Presented
To 'Miss Nancy'
For Long Service

The West Liberty Kiwanis Club entertained the faculty and staff of the Morgan County high and elementary school at its dinner meeting in the private dining room of Stamper's Restaurant Wednesday and presented a gift to Mrs. Nancy Turner to honor her on her record of 47 years of teaching.

Lloyd Patterson, principal of the school, presented the teachers and staff members, and J. Wendell Nickell, president of the club, welcomed them. Mr. Nickell said the Kiwanis Club is vitally interested in the schools and seeks to assist the school in all ways that it can. He pointed to the part the club had played in establishing the playground and swimming pool and in erecting the flood lights at the athletic field. He suggested that a present need is the building of side-walks along US 460 leading from the school, and stated the club will help in any way it can to carry this project into execution.

Bernard E. Whitl, on behalf of the club, presented a handsome gift to Mrs. Nancy Turner, first grade teacher at West Liberty 45 years and a teacher for 47 years. Mrs. Turner was one of 38 Kentucky teachers honored at the State Fair two weeks ago for having taught over 40 years.

Mrs. C. K. Stacy also announced that school day at the Morgan county fair on Friday, Oct. 8, would be dedicated as Nancy Turner Day in honor of Mrs. Turner. A committee has been named to arrange a program, build floats, etc. for the occasion. The program which will honor Mrs. Turner will be conducted in the stadium at the conclusion of the school parade Friday morning.

A quiz on Kentucky geography was conducted by Mr. Patterson. High scorers in the teacher group were Mabel Barber, Mabel Amyx and Paul Williams, and high scorers among Kiwanians were Charlie Dixon and Bernard E. Whitl. They received a home baked cake as prize.

Members of the school staff attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Patterson, Arthur Johnson, Mrs. Nancy Turner, Mrs. Gerald Amyx, Billy Jean Ratliff, Paul Williams, Paul Shipley, Ezra Bach, Resvie Wheeler, Hobart Cassidy, Catherine Walton, Zola Haney, Lena Haney, Anita Blair, Mrs. Byron Lewis, Mrs. Earl Henry, Miss Lula Mae Spencer, Mrs. Earl Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Anderson, Mrs. Rosaline Emrick, Mrs. Glenn Stanley, Mrs. Roy Nickell, Mrs. Woodrow Barber, Mrs. Wendell Nickell, Mrs. Clyde Adams, Mrs. Melba Fairchild and Mrs. Henry Carr Rose.

Guests were Joe D. Stacy and Earl W. Kinner.

50 WILD TURKEYS RELEASED IN AREA

The Kentucky Division of Fish and Wildlife Resources released the last of 25 wild turkeys in the new Sky Bridge Wildlife Management Area in Wolfe and Powell counties Tuesday, Harold Barber, district biologist of the division, reported this week.

The wild turkeys, trapped in the Kentucky Woodlands Wildlife Area in Trigg county, were brought to the Sky Bridge area by Bob Hornsby of Murray, assistant district biologist. The flock in the Kentucky Woodlands Wildlife Management Area is one of the few flocks of pure strain wild turkeys left in the eastern part of the nation.

The new Sky Bridge Wildlife Management Area consists of 10,000 acres in Wolfe and Powell counties. It was established primarily for the restocking of wild turkeys and other game.

Meanwhile the Division of Fish and Wildlife has restocked 50 deer in each county in the Cumberland National Forest from the Tennessee line north include Powell, Menifee and Wolfe counties. Next year more deer will be stocked in other counties in the national forest.

Morgan County Given Bookmobile At State Fair

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 16—Morgan County's new Bookmobile has been delivered and the traveling library is now rolling along the county's roads.

The presentation was made last Thursday at the Kentucky State Fairgrounds in Louisville before 7,000 spectators that filled the grandstand and the surrounding area.

Governor Lawrence W. Wetherby, on behalf of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, turned the Bookmobile over to Morgan's representative, Carl Stewart, superintendent of schools.

Standing by as he did so was Miss Lula M. Hale, representing the E. O. Robinson Mountain Fund, donor of the Bookmobile. Walton Jones, Morgan county school attendance officer, drove the Bookmobile in a parade of the 84 Bookmobiles at the Fair preceding the presentation.

Morgan's Bookmobile was purchased by a gift of $3,000 from the Robinson Mountain Fund of which Judge Edward C. O'Rear of Versailles is permanent chairman of the board of trustees.

Judge O'Rear studied law in his youth under Col. John T. Hazlett in West Liberty and commenced his law practice there. He visits Morgan county usually once or twice a year. It was on his visit last summer that Judge O'Rear visited the Courier office there. He had worked as a printer's devil on the Courier's predecessor, the Mountain Scorch, in the 1880's, and a conversation developed concerning Morgan's rapid progress and its fine citizenship. During the conversation Mrs. Henry L. Stacy of the Courier staff pointed out a need for more books for rural children and asked the Judge to take up the matter of a Bookmobile for Morgan county with the trustees of the Robinson Mountain Fund.

A few weeks later Judge O'Rear wrote to inform Mrs. Stacy that the Bookmobile project had been suggested to the trustees of the mountain fund. The fund had been set up to aid mountain institutions and educational institutions. Another letter sometime later advised that the $3,000 had been donated to the Kentucky Bookmobile Project for a bookmobile for Morgan county.

Kentucky Bookmobile Project outfitted the bookmobile with approximately $2,000 worth of books.

The Bookmobile is being operated by the Morgan County Board of Education with the cooperation of a few civic and church groups.

Mrs. Miriam Stewart is librarian and driver of the bookmobile. (Continued on page five)

Although they're folks

A handshake and a word
of cheer,
Will let them know at least
we care.

SCHOOL NEWS

By BERNARD E. WHITT

In visits to the various schools this year there appears more interest and better attendance.
There are however in a few schools a family or two that do not attend school. In making inquiry it also develops that the same families were not regular in attendance last year.

Mr. Jones, attendance supervisor, is going to expect these children to enter school. This is nothing more than right and fair to the children. In the school news we have been giving the names of the parents as it was not the intention to embarrass them. However, the embarrassment would not be as bad as the failure of the children to have their opportunity to receive an education.

Coffee Creek School

When I visited the school Monday there were 27 children present. The enrollment was 34. Mary Pauline Walsh, the teacher, said that Ralph Brown, SCF supervisor, visited the school and gave them pencils, soap and books.
One boy has not enrolled.

White Oak Branch School

This school has enrolled 20
children and all were present.
Lloyd Hill has taught four years here in the past and said his attendance the first month was 98½%, an excellent record. One family of three children that live almost in sight of the school are not enrolled. It was also reported that they did not attend last year. Ralph Brown, SCF supervisor, and Marcia Tarrant have visited the school. Mr. Brown gave the children pencils, soap
and books.

Spaw Creek School

Mrs. Pauline Wingo said she had enrolled 16 children and all were present. The school building is in bad repair and the roof leaks badly. One of the boys is helping in tobacco and comes part of the day in order to make up his lessons.

Lenox School

When I visited Lenox school,
Mrs. Estelle Caskey, teacher, said all children were present except one family. Ralph Brown, SCF
supervisor, Miss Marcia Tarrant,
Mrs. Lavene Hamilton and Mrs.
Josephine Day have visited the school.

Straight Creek School

Miss Nell Cantrill has enrolled 46 children. Only 28 were present. She said 14 of those absent were ill or working and would return soon. There are four that do not attend regularly and have missed more than half the time.
The school will enter in the parade during the fair. Marcia Tarrant visits the schools each Monday at 1 p.m. Miss Cantrill taught at Donahue last and attended summer school.

Dittion School

The school has enrolled 34
children and 26 were present.
Those absent were helping in tobacco or were sick. It was reported that one boy had not yet enrolled. Mrs. Beulah Gibson, the teacher, lives at Zag and taught last year in Perry county.
The school building had been treated just a little badly on the inside; however, it is one of the best buildings in the county and serves a large area in the section recently opened by a road. The school would like to have the electricity turned on.

4-H Poultry Judging Team Describes Trip To The State Fair

A delightful trip to the State Fair was enjoyed by the Morgan County 4-H poultry judging team as follows: Miss Ella Gay Vest, Linda Lu Jackson, Ruth Rowland and Carroll Glen Oldfield. They were chaperoned by Mrs. C. S. Jackson and County Agent Charlie Dixon who provided for the transportation by using his car.

Mr. Dixon made the trip very enjoyable by driving the group over the State Capitol grounds and explaining each building and we decided we had the most beautiful capitol for a beautiful state.

Mr. Dixon had his car radio tuned in and just as we were driving in front of the grounds the National Anthem began coming from the loud speaker. This seemed to be a "music setting" for our feeling of pride for our state and our whole U.S.A.

We enjoyed the nice rooming accommodations which were provided for us by the Morgan County 4-H Council.

The poultry judging was done Wednesday morning. We of the team found it a hard and serious job to do judging at the fair.

Mr. Dixon and Mrs. Jackson took us to see all the educational shows and displays. We visited all the livestock barns, all grandstand performances and were admitted free to one horse show. Our 4-H badge was our admittance sign.

This had been one of the most educational trips we have ever had the privilege of taking.

Our thanks to County Agent Charlie Dixon, Mrs. Jackson and the 4-H Council.

BOOKMOBILE

(Continued from page one) and made her first trip into the rural sections Monday, visiting schools at Rockhouse, Lacy Creek, Trace Fork, Vance Fork, Jones Creek, Squire Nickell and Salem. On Wednesday the bookmobile visited Coffey Creek, Pedlar's Gap, White Oak Branch, Relief, Cindas Creek and Dock's Creek, and on Thursday visited Jephtha, Straight Creek, Lenox, Spawps Creek, and Wells Hill.

According to Supt. Stewart the bookmobile will re-travel the same route in two weeks to pick up the books loaned and dispense others.

Meanwhile, Supt. Stewart announced that a group of interested citizens will meet early next week to plan a drive for additional books. He said the unit has some 800 volumes but that there already is a shortage. Additional books for children, particularly small children, are needed. But books for all ages will be accepted.

A total of 84 bookmobiles representing 86 counties were turned over to individual counties at the mass presentation here at the State Fair. Of these 84, six bought by the Project already were in use. There are funds on hand for about 12 more and the Project hopes soon to get bookmobiles into the remaining counties that desire them.

The ceremonies climaxed a 19-month drive that saw $300,000 raised by private subscription for the purchase of Bookmobiles and their stocks of books. The hope of Kentucky Bookmobile Project was to raise the state to the top in providing free library service from its former position of 47th among the 48 states.

The presentation of the Bookmobiles followed brief addresses by the four leaders of the Project: Mrs. Barry Bingham, project chairman; Harry W. Schacter, finance-campaign chairman and originator of the idea of a mobile-library system; Barney J. Lenihan, member of the Project's executive committee, and Paul Hughes, Sr., member of the executive committee and president of Friends of Kentucky Libraries.

GRASSY CREEK (By J. M. Gevedon)

Sept. 20—We have no means of estimating the damage done this community by last Sunday night's severe electric and heavy rain storm. There was no damaging wind here, but the electric display was terrific and the rain did much damage to crops, farm lands and roads. We haven't heard if any damage was caused by lightning.

Bert Gevedon and Deward Adams have their tobacco in shelter and are helping others to get theirs in, but the rains are making it hard work and are doing a lot of damage to tobacco caught standing on the sticks outside.

Paul Cottle of Yocum has been here the past week helping Gevedon and Adams with their tobacco and hay.

Harold Gevedon has been in bed for several days with what the doctor thought to be double pneumonia.

Mrs. Byron Lawes has just presented us with a new great granddaughter. She is still at the Murray Hospital.

Mrs. Luella Byrd spent part of last week with her son, Carl, of Campden, who is preparing to move to Xenia, Ohio where he has leased a business property.

On their way home from the annual meeting Judge and Mrs. Kelly Whitt of Mt. Sterling came by for a short visit with Aunt Jeston Gevedon.

Our squirrel looks lonesome, but he has the run of the range and can have his choice of the finest foods, such as walnuts, hazelnuts, hickory nuts, acorns and corn. Our rabbit lives, practically, on clover; he looks to be fat and fine and seems to have a lot of fun dodging the cat from one weed patch to another. We killed our ground hog the other day. He got too bold with his nibbling in our clover patch. We have two or three quail on the premises but they keep well hidden and seem to seldom appear in public. It seems that just as soon as I got unable to hunt the game all around here quietly disappeared, and left the Red laughing up his sleeve.

REXVILLE (By Cora Stamper)

HUNTING & FISHING

Glenn Johnson of Pomp returned recently from a vacation and fishing trip to Florida. He caught two strings of fish with the help of his son one afternoon at Hidden Hollow Lake, operated by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Day, formerly of West Liberty. Glenn was in the Courier office with a picture of the fish. We believe him.

Chalmer Allen went hunting the other Sunday morning and killed six fish and in the afternoon went fishing and caught six squirrels. Sometimes the fishing editor has to clean off his desk. This happened this week and its a slight what is uncovered. One valuable found was a giant size card from the Alec Spencer family from out west and is now stuck on the wall over the desk next to a smallpox fishing fever. Wonder if the Spencers ever got back. The card looked like a fine fishing place out there.

Jim Fairchild, proprietor of the City Restaurant, and Bernard E. Whitte went hunting Sunday a.m. Jim killed 3 squirrels and Bernard only 2. This was the first time Jim has gone hunting in 8 years.
